

Unveiling the Soul of Greek Philately

A CHRONICLE IN STAMPS

Embark on a captivating journey through Greece's philatelic legacy, where history, culture, and art converge on miniature canvases that traverse the globe. Since the issuance of the first Greek stamp, the iconic Large Hermes Head, in 1861, Greek philately has evolved into a vibrant tapestry of national heritage and contemporary spirit.

At its heart stands Hellenic Post, a beacon of service and innovation for over 196 years. Established in 1828 by Ioannis Kapodistrias, the first Governor of Greece, Hellenic Post boasts 475 branches, 471 post offices, and a dedicated workforce of 3,070 individuals, delivering excellence in postal services to the nation and beyond.

Our stamps serve as cultural ambassadors, commemorating luminaries like Maria Callas, showcasing the vibrancy of Mediterranean festivals, and preserving the allure of Greek theater costumes. Beyond celebrations, our stamps echo universal themes of peace, environmental stewardship, and compassion, fostering solidarity across borders.

Moreover, philately educates and inspires, offering insights into history, mythology, and contemporary issues. From commemorating the Asia Minor Disaster to advocating for technological innovation, our stamps empower future generations to navigate a rapidly evolving world.

As we embrace the digital frontier, initiatives like the "Child and Stamp - Child and Technology" series explore the intersection of virtual reality, robotics, and education, paving the way for a new era of philatelic engagement.

Greek philately stands as a testament to the enduring power of human expression and connection. Across continents and cultures, our stamps unite collectors and enthusiasts in a shared celebration of creativity, knowledge, and friendship.

Join us in exploring the artistry, history, and culture of Greece through the timeless medium of stamps. Visit www.philotelismos.gr to discover more about our collections, initiatives, and the fascinating world of Greek philately. Together, let us continue to inspire and connect through the magic of stamps.
