

Tunisian Postage Stamps

Vector of Cooperation, and developpement

Philately, the art of collecting stamps, is much more than just a hobby : it is a powerful tool for celebrating history, promoting culture and raising awareness of contemporary issues. Through stamps, important events are commemorated and messages of solidarity, cooperation and sustainable development are promoted. This collection of stamps and sustainable development initiatives highlights the importance of these small works of art.

Each stamp tells a story, whether to mark historic occasions, celebrate moments of international cooperation or promote essential causes such as environmental conservation and technological innovation.

In this way, each stamp and each project linked to this collection plays a key role in spreading messages of sustainability, culture and cooperation. Through these issues and actions, philately becomes a mirror of our times and a communication tool in the service of major international causes.
