Submission of UNI Global Union's Candidature for Membership of the Management Committee

Motivation letter: We are long-standing and loyal members of the Consultative Committee.

To the members of the Consultative Committee:

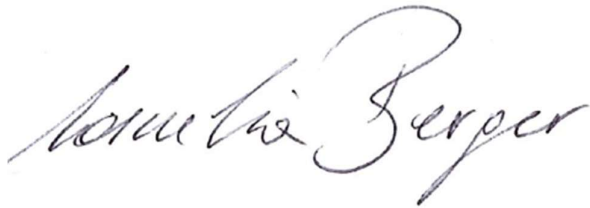

As an international trade union federation headquartered in Switzerland, UNI Global Union represents more than 2.5 million postal workers through its affiliated unions in over 80 countries worldwide. We are a democratic, non-profit NGO dedicated to advancing the interests of postal and logistics employees internationally, while actively contributing to the transformation of the postal sector into a modern, green, innovative, and customer-oriented service. Within the Consultative Committee, our engagement focuses particularly on regulation and postal policy.

UNI Global Union has been a member of the Consultative Committee for more than a decade, making us one of its most experienced members. We bring both expertise and practical experience to this role. Representing unions active in both the postal and logistics sectors, we are uniquely positioned to build bridges between the public and the private, ensuring that perspectives from all fields are well integrated.

Through our work in the Committee, UNI Global Union provides a unique channel to integrate the views, needs and visions of employees into business strategies. At the same time, we offer postal operators and related companies from the wider postal sector the opportunity to engage in structured dialogue with national trade unions. This social partnership approach enables the joint development of strategies, projects, and innovations in a cooperative manner.

We see ourselves as a bridge-builder, mediator, and source of long-standing experience, which is why we consider our role within the leadership of the Consultative Committee as particularly valuable. With our headquarters in Switzerland, we are also well-placed to contribute directly—whether on an ad hoc basis or through planned initiatives—to the international bureau in support of the Consultative Committee’s work.

UNI Global Union plays a unique role by bringing the perspectives of postal and logistics workers into the Consultative Committee—voices that would otherwise not be represented. We therefore trust in a positive decision by the members of the Consultative Committee to confirm our place on the Management Committee (MC).
